

Vector polygons

Mask applied

Utility of vectors :

Vectors save data based on shapes, while rasters save data based on pixels. This property of vectors allows you to maintain the quality of the map even when you zoom in, as they store data by describing the relationships between points, lines, and so on.

*After applying the mask, the RGB values of the pixels have changed for unknown reasons, and they now appear in a yellowish-white hue. It seems necessary to analyze the cause of the change in RGB values.